United States is what the Communists are waiting for.

"(4) That the man over 40 needs help in securing employment. I believe that all industry should consider and these on Federal projects be forced to hire on a sliding scale. That is employ as a policy a certain percentage between 20-30, 30-40, 40-50, 50-60, and possibly above equalized with the supply and demand.

"(5) That there is a general desire and need for more industry. Many have expressed disappointment that other surrounding Congressional Districts have obtained more. This is something we must all work for.

"(6) That the working man wants representation in this Congressional District. I promise 'Equal Representation For All'.

"(7) That Federal Aid is needed for schools without Federal dictation. I agree.

"(8) That farm price support should be continued. I agree.

"(9) That many roads still need improvement and that the one between Arkadelphia and Alpine is a disgrace. (I propose that highway signs be standardized throughout the various states. If this saves one life during a year it would be worth while.)

"(10) That drought relief should be continued if needed. I agree.

"(11) That people do not want their land covered with water unless it is going to result in a real benefit through recreation and flood control for the people of the 4th Congressional District of Arkansas. I agree. This sets De Gray Dam apart from Millwood.

"(12) That the locks and dams should be maintained on the Ouachita River and possibly lift improvement extended to Arkadelphia. I know it means a large investment, but we have given a lot of money to help other people in foreign countries improve their rivers.

"In order to help hold the locks and dams on the Ouachita I purpose to buy brought from Germany a 38-foot boat and sailed it from New Orleans to Camden two years ago where it is now docked. You are invited to come for a ride during the day to see the natural beauty on the Ouachita. Later it will be moved to ports south of Camden for the convenience of others. I have a personal interest and investment in rivers and naturally want to see improvements on the Red, Little River, Little Missouri, Saline, and Bayou Bastholomew within the conformities of the desires of the people concerned.

"(13) Equalization and continuation of veteran's benefits. I agree.

"(14) Less Foreign Aid. I agree.

I have seen how much of it has been spent.

"(15) I would prefer not to serve on the District of Columbia committee on which the incumbent prides high seniority. It is like having the mayor of Chicago represent this Congressional District.

"Have you time to read further? — a quick synopsis of my life. Nothing spectacular, but nothing to hide.

"I have tried to live a spotless life in preparation for public office. This may sound trite, but in a way I had no other choice. My mother's name is on the corner stone of the Ouachita County Jail and my father's name is on the corner stone of the Elliott Baptist Church where I was saved at the age of 11. I am 41 and I could never see how I was to improve myself by drinking or smoking so I never started either.

"I was tagged with the nickname of 'Jelly' when I was a freshman in Camden High School and it stuck with me during the years. I worked my way through the University of Arkansas, where I was Drum Major of the Band.

"In 1935 I went to Washington, D. C. with former Congressman Wade Kitchens. Captain Kitchens introduced me to the late Senator Joe T. Robinson, who had only to lift the telephone and I had a job in the General Accounting Office. I shall always remember the words of the Senator: 'I will get anybody a job who is willing to learn.'

"I was fortunate to have Senator Fulbright as a professor in my first year of law school at George Washington University. The next year I transferred to Georgetown University where after completing the four year course I received my LL.B. degree. I passed the Arkansas Bar in 1941. I was president of the University of Arkansas Alumni Association and program director of the Arkansas State Society, Washington, D. C.

"As I advanced in law school I was promoted to contract examiner where I submitted findings and recommendations to the Comptroller of the U. S. who is directly responsible to Congress. Thus I had been learning the Federal Government from the bottom up for five years when the incumbent came to Washington.

"I learned to know better most of the present members of the Arkansas Congressional delegation when I had a radio program by transcription over five Arkansas stations from Washington D. C. called the 'Arkansas Forum of the Air' (1941). Mr. Harris was very cooperative.

"But came the war — and for me personal greetings from the president.

"One night when the lights went off during my officers candidates session, Camp Lee, Virginia, I spoke to my class of 140 about Washington, D. C. and the White House and the Lincoln Memorial.

"I have learned through research and writing; from Dale Carnegie's course much about living and speech techniques; by teaching public speaking in Maryland University.

"I have learned by trying to capture the spirits of people on film. I hope that you have seen or will see my four year sound film project on BERLIN. It will be shown over the Texarkana T. V. station.

"During this last five weeks of my get-acquainted-tour through the district I have been passing on to you some of my experiences behind the 'Iron Curtain' so that you might know what could happen here.

"And lastly I am learning among other things that most believe that the longer the incumbent stays in office the closer he becomes to a few and gradually alienates himself from the majority, and that 14 years is enough.

"And I want now to help me learn more about you and your district.

North Heights Scores 6-3 Win Off Hope

A schedule mixup resulted in the Legionnaires playing North Heights here last night and it would have been better if they had played Bradley, the announced opponent. Hope lost by a 6 to 3 score.

With Jackson stealing home in the 8th the game could have ended but the visitors wanted a couple of more runs in the 9th. The visitors scored first in the second frame behind an error, a double and a single that produced two tallies. Hope tied it up in the same inning on singles by Gunter and Huddleston and went ahead in the 5th on Bob White's safety. But a couple of singles by the Bears tied it up again in the 6th.

Sonny Griffin was the loser giving up six runs on eight hits, walked five and fanned seven. T. Reed was the winner allowing three runs on six hits, walked two and fanned four.

Tonight the Legion boys will play host to the strong Mineral Springs Flyers for the first time this year. Reader Huddleston will go for the locals.

Giants Save Power for the Last Inning

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Incredible! That is the only word which describes the surprising deeds of Leo Durocher's New York Giants.

During the last three weeks the Giants have won 18 of 21 games, and a majority of those have been won in the Giants' last turn at bat.

Last night's game with the Milwaukee Braves was typical. Trailing 2-1 through eight innings and limited to six hits by Gene Conley, the Giants erupted for three hits and, with the aid of a walk and a sacrifice, tallied two runs to tip the Braves 3-2.

It was an important victory, for coupled with Brooklyn's 13-1 defeat at the hands of the Cincinnati Redlegs earlier in the day, it boosted the Giants' first-place lead to two games over the Dodgers.

Willie Mays and Monte Irvin shared the laurels last night. Mays, whose homer No. 21 had accounted for the Giants' first run, drove in the tying run with a double. Irvin, hitless in his last 20 times at bat, and riding the bench because of a severe batting slump, stepped up to the plate as a pinch hitter and knocked in the winning run with a two-out single to right center.

That's the way it's been going since the Giants began their spectacular climb to the top. Just two weeks ago to the day, it was a double by Irvin that scored two runs in the ninth to give them a 6-5 triumph over the Braves.

Two days later, Bill Taylor's pinch-hit homer in the 10th beat Conley and the Braves 1-0. A week ago yesterday a three-run homer by Hank Thompson with two out in the ninth against the Reds enabled the Giants to turn defeat into victory.

Last Saturday, it was a pinch-hit homer by Hot Evers with two out in the ninth that enabled the Giants to climax a comeback victory over the Cardinals. The next day, another couple of pinch hitters, Bobby Hofman and Dusty Rhodes slammed homers in the same inning to nip the Redbirds 7-6.

Nardico Returns to Lightweight
CHICAGO (AP)—Danny Nardico returns to light heavyweight competition tonight after an unsuccessful fling among the heavies, taking on promising Paul Andrews in a nationally televised 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium 8 p. m. (CST).

Nardico, an ex-Marion from Tampa, Fla., is ranked seventh among lightweights on a record of 48 victories, including 34 knockouts, 12 defeats and four draws.

Six months ago he floored Joey Maxim and stopped Jake La Motta. Then he stepped up to heavyweight competition and took two trimmings from Charlie Norwood.

Andrews, 24-year-old ex-paratrooper from Buffalo, N. Y., is ranked sixth in his division by the National Boxing Association. He lost to Harold Johnson in his last bout but has piled up 13 K's in a brief career.

A possible match with Joey Maxim, former lightweight champion, is the prize awaiting the winner.

Virgil Trucks Gets Victory Number 10

By Milton Richman
United Press Sports Writer

Virgil Trucks insists he "just rares back and fires," and it could be that's all it takes to rekindle the White Sox sizzling pennant flame.

Trucks, bent upon winning 20 games this season for the second straight year, racked up his 10th victory by whipping Washington, 7-5, last night. His triumph, along with the Athletics' 4-1 decision over the Indians, moved the White Sox within three games of the American League lead.

"Ever since I broke into baseball," Trucks says, "every manager has told me the same thing 'Just rare back and fire.' I thought maybe that there would be different instructions now that I'm getting along in years, but Paul Richards tells me the same thing."

Trucks' formula accounted for four strikeouts against the Senators last night and although he was nicked for homers by Jim Busby and Roy Sievers and left the game with two out in the ninth, he joined teammate Bob Keegan and Harvey Haddix of the Cubs as the only pitchers in the majors with as many as 10 triumphs.

While Trucks was subduing the Senators, one of his ex-teammates was unwittingly helping the White Sox by beating league-leading Cleveland.

Southpaw Al Sima, dealt by the White Sox to the Athletics a week ago, made his first starting assignment of the season a winning one by holding the Indians to four hits. He was credited with his first victory of the year although Sonny Dixon relieved him when the Tribe kicked up in the eighth. Philadelphia wrapped up the game with three runs in the fourth off loser Early Wynn, two of the markers coming across on Sima's single.

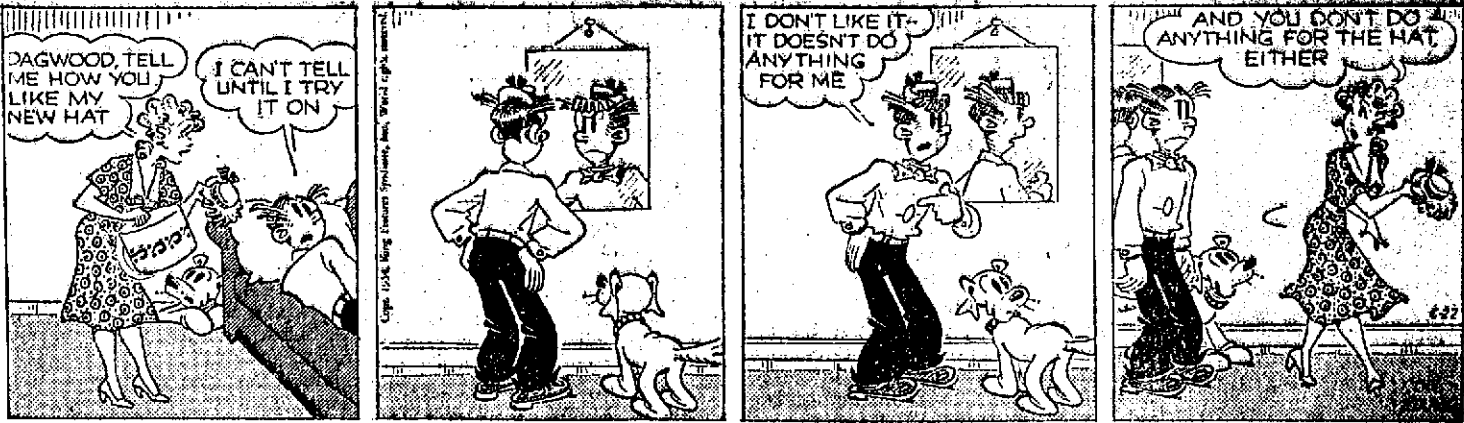

Sammy White's 12th inning double scored Harry Agganis with the run that snapped a 1-all tie and helped the Red Sox to a 3-1 triumph over the Orioles. Billy Conzolo's single tallied White with the second run of the frame as Bob Turley suffered his seventh loss. Ellis Kinder relieved Tom Brewer in the 11th and was credited with his fourth conquest.

Steve Gromek turned in his ninth victory of the year, scattering eight Yankee hits while hurling the Tigers to a 4-1 triumph. Bob Wesler, fresh up from Kansas City, gave up all of Detroit's runs and was the loser. Four singles plus two walks by Wiesler in the third inning gave Detroit two runs, all it needed to win.

The Giants stretched their National League lead to two full games over the Dodgers as they beat Milwaukee, 3-2, while Cincinnati swamped Brooklyn, 13-1.

Monte Irvin was the Giant hero, coming off the bench as a pinch hitter in the ninth to single home the winning run off big Gene Conley. Willie Mays hit his 21st homer for the Giants while Hank Aaron, connected for

The Mighty MILO

The Mighty MILO PHILIPS ROGERS

Head up, feet up, is rattle ho! No want hurt! His body rocked more than ever and he was really crying now. "Milo want rattle, him say no."

I figured out what had happened. Mr. Dunkelberger was stuffed down the chute with both head and feet up.

There was a thim, banging noise and I shouted down, "Don't worry, Mr. Dunkelberger. This is Freddy Anspach and Milo, who is even stronger than I am. We'll have you out in a minute."

We did, too. Even a man as thin as Mr. Dunkelberger couldn't have gone down that chute very far, the way Milo had put him in. We didn't need to use the towels that Milo had tied together at all. We only threw out 40 or 50 more towels and there was Mr. Dunkelberger.

I got a good hold on his wrists and pulled as hard as I could, while Milo hung on to my legs to keep me from falling in on top of Mr. Dunkelberger. He was sure wedged into that chute, but I gave a superhuman effort and he came free.

I explained to him that Milo was Greek and spoke very little English. All Milo wanted, I said, was to go down to the gym and wrestle. Naturally, when Mr. Dunkelberger wouldn't let him, he was upset, which was why Milo dumped him in the chute, thinking it was only a box.

Mr. Dunkelberger used language that I hated to hear from a Sunday school teacher.

At the Y that Saturday night, I expected trouble, because of all the dirty towels that had been thrown on top of my ex-Sunday school teacher while he was stuck in the towel chute, and I waited for Milo on the steps outside the Y.

A lot of other fellows were standing there, but they were only watching the girls go by, the way girls do when there are a lot of fellows standing in front of some place.

When Milo came along, he was dressed the way he always was, in shiny black pants and that gray turtlenecked sweater. His egg-shaped head was shaved so smooth it reflected the colors of the neon signs and street lights.

"Fed, me late in 'F-R-E-D.' Even as I tried to explain and pronounce I knew it was hopeless. "Fed, tink fail! no hate!"

I was surprised how quickly I was catching on to what Milo tried to say. When I try to tell you this way it sounds like a combination of what Indian chiefs and Chinese immigrants are supposed to say when they talk English, but I guess there's no law against their speaking our language the way we speak theirs, and believe me, I had a harder time with Greek in high school than Milo was having with English. At least I had an idea of what he was talking about.

"He'll get over it," I said, but I was afraid that my ex-Sunday school teacher might not be as Christian as he should be.

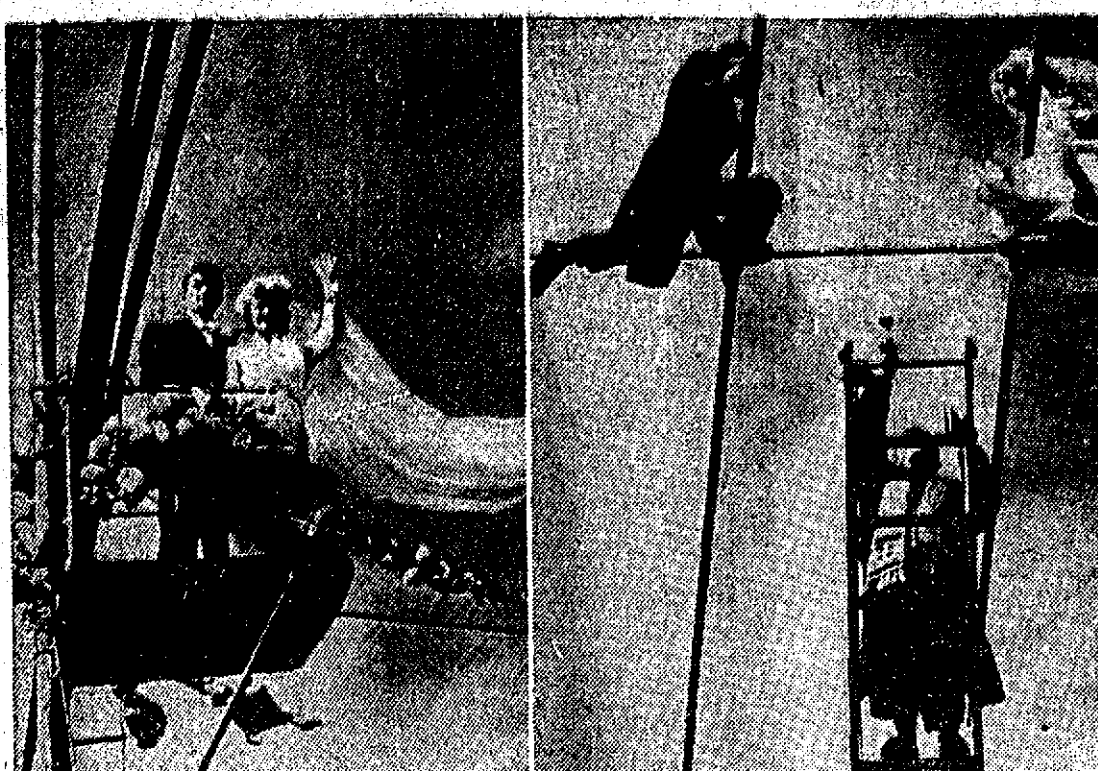

It turned out that I was right, and when I got a chance to reply to Mr. Dunkelberger I could only stammer. "After all, Milo did apologize. Whatever you are entitled to say as my ex-Sunday school teacher, I do not think that you should employ such language as an employee of the Young Men's Christian Association." I put emphasis on "Christian," because they are supposed to forgive their enemies.

Mr. Dunkelberger finally got into a more Christian frame of mind and let Milo go down to the gym with me.

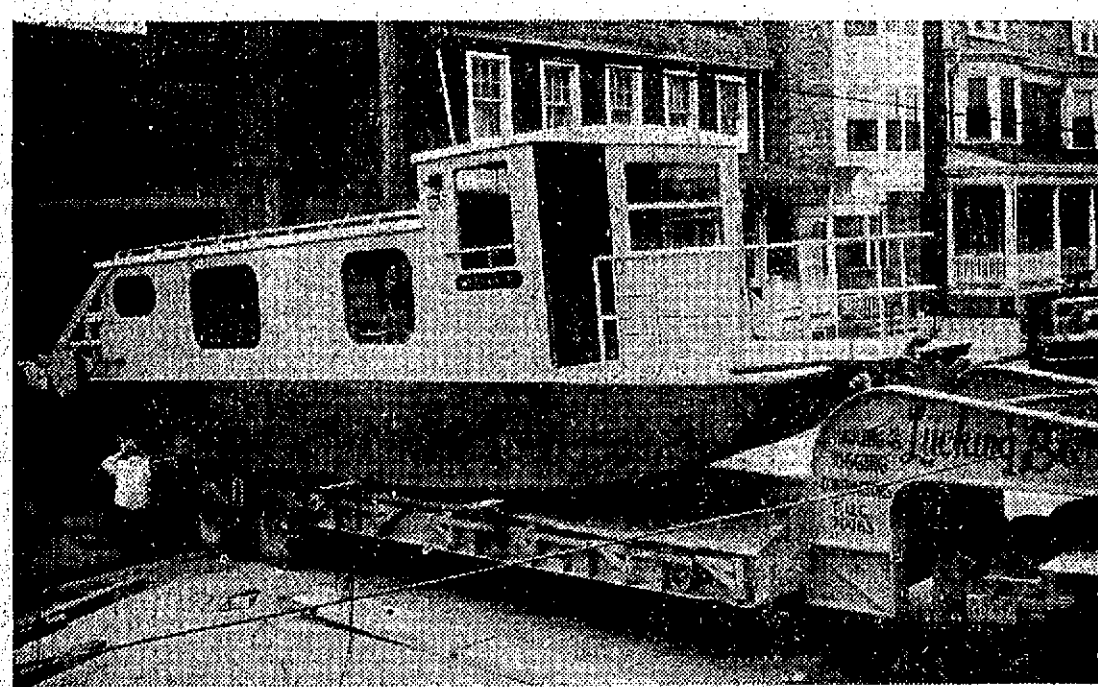

Now there is no place I can think of that I liked better than that old gym. The equipment was pretty beat-up. It smelled of sweat, liniment, ketchup-hazel, and the stuff they put around to prevent athlete's foot, but I even liked that.

Milo made a face. "Place is bad for rattle," he said. "Open air, Breat in, breathe out, is good. Sun is good. Fed, we fin' place rattle in country."

(To Be Continued)

FOLLOWING A STRAIGHT AND NARROW PATH—It's often said that the road to a successful marriage is a straight and narrow path. But few will be straighter or narrower than the one started by acrobats Roger Desguis and Berthe Omankowski in Toulouse, France. After exchanging vows in a church, Roger, 25, and Berthe, 21, waved to the crowd of over 20,000 at left. Then the couple walked out on a tightwire 60 feet above the street where Abbe Simon, perched on a fireman's ladder, right, gave them his blessing.

DREAM BOAT—After two years, Joe Burgard of York, Pa., finished his 32-foot houseboat. It's made of metal and resembles a house trailer without wheels. The floating "castle" is propelled by a chain-driven paddle wheel in the stern.

DOROTHY DIX

Confused Lass

Dear Miss Dix: I am really mixed up. I met Leon a year ago and fell quite in love with him or so I thought. We went together for two months, then he met somebody else and began to go steady with her. However, he wanted to go out with me the night he didn't see her. I didn't like the idea, and refused. In a few weeks he back, having broken with the other girl. In the meantime, however, I had met Harvey, a pleasant young man and very good company.

It would be foolish for Harvey and me to become serious as we are of different religions, each being very devout. I'm afraid to trust Leon too much after what he did before, and I'd hate to lose Harvey's friendship. I'm 18, if that is important.

Bide Your Time

Answer: At 18, getting or shedding a boy friends isn't such a serious matter. The best thing you can do is bide your time a bit longer. Perhaps Leon will show by real devotion that he's more than ready to atone for his lapse, or perhaps a third boy will come along with charm that you're irresistible. It would be better to see less of Harvey, since any serious intentions involving him would be fraught with too many complications.

Dear Miss Dix: After being friends for 14 years, Guy and I had a misunderstanding and decided to call it a day. We are both stubborn and neither of us will give in easily. Each is afraid to take the first step toward reconciliation. What can be done?

Answer: Well, what can you do? Sit around your respective living rooms from now on waiting for the other to make a move? Or are you willing to be the appeaser, take the telephone off the hook and call Guy? You may get some satisfaction from being the stubborn martyr, but certainly there's nothing else you'll get out of it. The childish habit of trying to force the other fellow into giving in has caused much unhappiness and many broken romances. Don't add yours to the scrap heap; salvage it now.

Dear Miss Dix: A very dear friend of mine is soon to have a birthday and I'm in a quandary about what to give her. She has a beautiful home, but it is quite cluttered with novelties, figurines, and other bric-a-brac that people have given her. As she's an older woman she's tired dusting and caring for these things. MARY T. Answer: If you know the lady so well, how can you have come to the conclusion that novelties of this type are the only possible gifts? Surely you know her taste in other things. A book is a perfect gift. Does she like nice personal things. A handmade apron or hanky, flowers, candy, perfume, powder, purse, costume jewelry — the list can go on and on. There's no reason why the bric-a-brac problem should concern you at all.

Dear Miss Dix: Since your column is read mostly by women, would you please tell them that they look like the dickens in slacks and jeans. Men just don't like them. We much prefer attractive dresses. DISILLUSIONED MALE

Answer: Well, you have told your tale, but I doubt if it will do much good. Ladies have sold themselves on the idea that such attire is the thing for warm weather and, looks or no looks, they'll not forego comfort. Wouldn't you be satisfied if the attire that offends you was restricted to appropriate figures and locals I would.

Dear Miss Dix: I've been going with a boy for the past year, and he has stood me up several times. How ever, he always came back, and I'd go out with him again. He has often told me he loves me, and I love him, but recently he said he didn't care anything about me. We parted, but I do so hope he comes back. Do you think he will? HELENE

Answer: If he did, Helen, you'd be very foolish to take him back. Since the beginning of time people have had to get over broken romances, and I'm sure you'll do a good job of picking up the pieces on this one. Other boys will come along, and let's hope their natures will be more constant.

The fermentation that takes place in the brewing of wine and beer is the same process that takes place in making bread with yeast.
